PARTY-POLITICAL WORK IN SOVIET ARMED FORCES

Directly managing military construction, the Communist Party is developing and putting into effect the scientifically substantiated military politics of the Soviet State, proceeding from the fundamental interests of the building of Communism, protection of the native country. In its activity the CPSU rests on the objective laws of development of human society, considers the laws governing warfare as public phenomenon. The most advanced Marxist-Leninist outlook, in truth the scientific dialectic method of knowledge make it possible for the Communist Party to deeply penetrate the essence of warfare and military affairs, to study them in constant development, in the interdependence with the class struggle and the politics of states in the international scale.

At each historical step the Party develops and puts into effect military policy, which the most completely conforms to the problems of guarantee of the protection of the Soviet native country, increase of the combat readiness of our armed forces. It directs and coordinates the activity of all state and public organs on the fortification of the defensive capability of the country.

The fundamental positions of military policy of the Party in contemporary conditions are clearly stated in the program of the CPSU. In it is stated: "The Party proceeds from the fact that while imperialism is preserved, the danger of aggressive wars will remain. The CPSU considers protection of the socialist fatherland, fortification of the defense of the USSR, the might of the Soviet armed forces as a sacred duty of the Party, the entire Soviet nation, as the most important function of the socialist state" *.

ENDFOOTNOTE

The Central Committee of the Party develops the leading positions in the region of Soviet military science and military art. Soviet military doctrine is being developed in inseparable unity with the ideology and policy of the CPSU.

The leadership of the Communist Party as the basis of military build-up is manifested further in the fact that the Central
